The six performances will be held at the Creative and Performing Arts (CAPA). This also marks a shift in performance venue, which is fitting as CAPA is one of the areas elite All-Steinway Schools. CAPA students will be admitted free to the concerts and will benefit from master classes by prominent artists. Two of this year's concerts will be presented through the courtesy of the Adams Foundation.

All concerts are held at 3 p.m. Sunday afternoons. Admission to the concerts is free to individuals with an annual SSWPA membership of $40. Individual concert tickets are available at $15 for non-member and $5 for non-CAPA students. Each Adams Foundation concert is available at $20 for both members and non-members. Tickets will also be available at the door.
